BRITISH AND CANADIANS MAKE GAINS ALONG MAAS RIVER

U. S. FORCES ARE LOCKED IN BITTER BATTLE

Field Officer Estimates German 15th Army Has Lost More Than Half Its Strength

POUNDING ON ARNHEM

BULLETINS
With American Infantry in the Herten Area, Nov. 6.—(P)—American troops were pushed out of Vossenack at the eastern edge of the Herten forest today. The Americans attacked later in the day, however, and fighting roared in the center of the town.

With American Troops in Holland, Nov. 6.—(P)—The Germans have pulled their troops back across the Maas at Moerdijk and have blown up almost half the bridge, one of the longest in Europe, aerial reconnaissance showed today.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press War Editor
British and Canadian armies pushed up to the Maas river along a 40-mile front today in the mop-up stage of the campaign to open Antwerp harbor for Allied supply armadas, and a field officer estimated the German 15th army had lost more than half its strength in this, arduous, bloody battle of southwestern Holland.

An unconfirmed Berlin broadcast asserted British forces already had begun pounding anew at Antwerp. German-held Dutch key to the northern approaches to Germany. Americans southeast of Aachen were locked in bitter see-saw battle with Germans guarding the Roer river line before Cologne.

Air fleets beat steadily at enemy communications ahead of the U. S. First Army in the Aachen sector of Germany, presumably helping get up a renewed offensive toward the Rhine. The doughboys closed in again on Schmidt, 15 miles southeast of Aachen, lost to German counterattacks Saturday. Both sides were engaging tanks. American progress was slowed by minefields, swept by shells and bullets, in the gloomy German forestlands.

In Holland, the British and Canadian drives had wiped out the German stand below the Maas save for two vanishing bridgeheads at Moerdijk and Willemstadt. The Germans on Walcheren island were compressed into two pockets, and the sea lane to Antwerp was open except for minefields.

The U. S. Third Army struck out 100 miles below Aachen and seized the town of Berg, eight miles northeast of Trier. Seventh Army troops made good progress in the Vosges foothills.

Election Eve Polls Show Little Change

New York, Nov. 6.—(P)—Three of five nationwide polls show President Roosevelt leading Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his Republican opponent for the presidency, on election eve.

The Fortune Survey of Public Opinion gives President Roosevelt 53.6 per cent of the popular vote as compared to Dewey's 46.4 per cent. These figures were compiled from answers to "attitude questions."

A secret ballot poll conducted by the survey gave the president 52.5 per cent and Dewey 47.5 per cent.

Climactic Battle On Leyte Nears

By MURLIN SPENCER

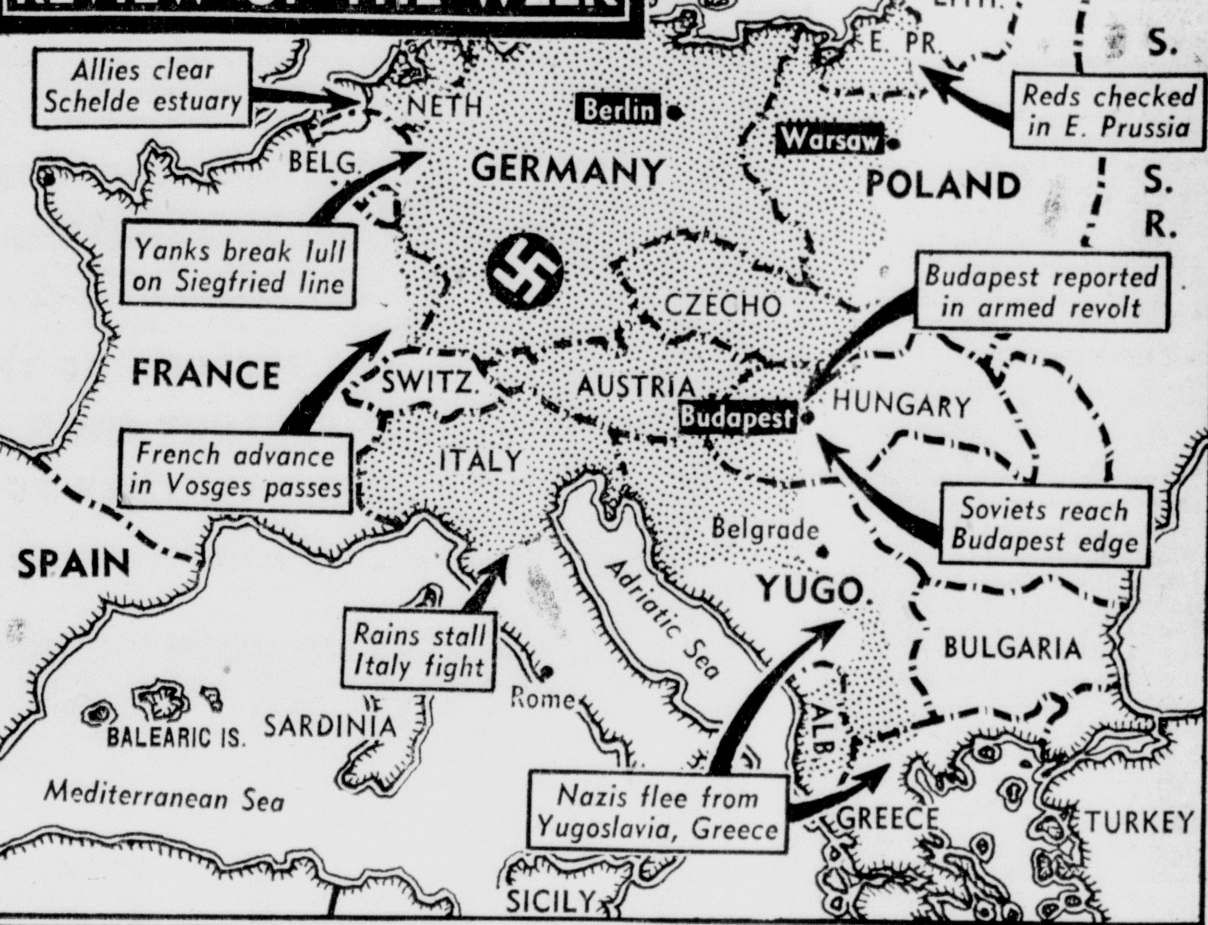

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Nov. 6.—(P)—American long-range artillery was in the reinforced Japanese in a narrow valley on northwestern Leyte today as the Yank invaders, driving on the besieged Ormoc garrison from two sides, readied themselves for a cleanup fight.

Panapopan, strategic communication center on Leyte's northwest coast, was captured yesterday by veterans of the American 24th Division who immediately headed south toward Ormoc, west coast port town 20 miles away through which the Japanese for three days have managed to bring in reinforcements.

South of Ormoc—the enemy's last escape port—the 7th Infantry Division was about 12 miles away after a 14-mile drive from captured Baybay.

Thus a climactic battle for the central Philippine island appeared taking shape fast.

Forts Blast Local High School Student Enemy Base Instantly Killed In Crash At Singapore

Washington, Nov. 6.—(P)—Sledgehammer blows of the Giant B-29 Superfortresses have struck at another vital spot of Japan's war acquired territory—the great naval base of Singapore. Giant bombers of the 20th Air Force which since early summer, have ranged from Manchuria in the north to Sumatra in the south, and which have hit directly at the strategic tip of the Malay peninsula, which Japan wrested from Britain early in 1942.

It was the longest daylight strike ever flown by military planes, and a communique described results as "good to excellent." India based Superfortresses also struck heavily at the Pangkalan-Brandan oil refinery on the north coast of Sumatra as long-distance raids against the enemy were stepped up to what soon may grow to almost clock-like regularity.

No B-29s were reported lost in either strike. At Pangkalan-Brandan, at least one bomb dropped squarely on the refinery which was described as the second most important source of high octane gasoline in the far east. No. 1 is the Pladjoe refinery at Palembang, also on Sumatra, which was hit last month.

Man Found Dead At Sugar Grove

Robert S. Cummings, well-known resident of Sugar Grove, was found dead in a back room of his home at that place shortly before noon today with a bullet wound in the left side of his chest and a shotgun lying beside the body.

Mr. Cummings was a life-long resident of Sugar Grove and was employed at the Sugar Grove Savings Bank until compelled to retire because of ill health. He is survived by his wife, Gertrude, a son, Stewart, in Massachusetts, daughter, Mrs. Margaret Wholeben, in Cleveland, and sister, Mrs. Caroline Veness, Sugar Grove.

Removal was made to the Schoonover funeral home at Sugar Grove.

County Flier Killed In Army Plane Accident In Maryland

Lt. Kenneth Merrill Haight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Haight, Sugar Grove RD 2, was one of two officers killed Saturday night when their plane crashed near Oakland, Md. The other was Lt. Harry F. Farrow, of Norway, Me.

It has been learned from his family that Lt. Haight, 19, was flying home for a weekend leave from Shaw Field, where he was an instructor, and his parents had gone to Pittsburgh to meet him. When he failed to arrive about five o'clock, as expected, a call was put through to his field. There it was learned his plane was lost in a storm in the mountainous region but was keeping in touch with his home base at Sumter by radio. Later, by telephone, it was ascertained he had crashed near Oakland and both he and his companion were killed.

Lt. Haight is a graduate of Youngsville High School, trained as a flying cadet and won his wings and commission as second lieutenant. A lad of fine character, he had many friends in Youngsville and vicinity, where he had spent practically all his lifetime. His family moved to a farm near Chandlers Valley shortly before he left to enter service. While in Youngsville he attended the United Brethren church.

Besides his parents, he leaves a younger brother, Jack, and a sister, Joann, both at home, also his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Haight, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Freeborough, of Youngsville.

Arrangements are being made to bring the body home and interment will likely be in the Youngsville cemetery.

Fighting Still Rages In City Of Budapest

London, Nov. 6.—(P)—Furious fighting raged in the suburbs of shell-torn Budapest today as heavy Russian infantry forces joined armored vanguards which had penetrated the defenses of the Hungarian capital from the north and south on the east side of the Danube river.

The Germans said they had recaptured the East Prussian town of Goldap, 19 miles inside the Reich, after surrounding the place. The Russians at midnight reported violent German counterattacks started off there.

The enemy said also that a counterattack had started south of Budapest and that the Hungarian capital was not yet under a major Russian assault. The Red army was declared regrouping and reinforcing for the final attempt.

The city's German and Hungarian defenders were being captured at the rate of 1,000 a day in the potential Russian encirclement. Moscow announced. Hungarian reports quoted by Bucharest indicated the bulk of the Nazi forces already were fleeing to the western part (BUDA) of the Danube-straddling capital.

The war bulletin said enemy resistance had stiffened temporarily and was particularly furious against the strong Soviet column striking from Budapest's north-eastern communications. It put the total of Nazi prisoners taken in the week's offensive at 10,518.

Camp Reynolds Is To Be Transferred

Camp Reynolds, Nov. 6.—(P)—Discontinuance of Camp Reynolds, near Greenville, on December 11 and its "re-establishment" at Indiantown Gap was announced today by the Press Relations Office.

A statement from the office said: "The Army Department circular today announced that the Army Forces personnel replacement depot, Camp Reynolds, Pa., will be discontinued thereat, effective December 11, 1944, and concurrently therewith established at Indiantown Gap military reservation, Pa."

QUADRUPLTS ARE MAKING SLOW GAINS

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—(P)—The Cirminello quadruplets are only 10 per cent short of success in their struggle for existence.

"The chances of survival are now about 90 per cent," says Dr. Ralph M. Tyson, chief pediatrician at Lying-In Hospital.

He said girl C and the boy—now named Michael—are "still a little dehydrated" and are being given liquids sub-cutaneously.

Mrs. Kathleen Cirminello, the 30-year-old mother, has improved so much from the Caesarian operation of last Wednesday that Papa Cirminello intends to return to work as Securities and Exchange Commission analyst. He has been staying at her bedside.

AERIAL SIEGE ENTERS THIRD STRAIGHT DAY

More Than 1,800 Yank Planes Attack Industrial Targets in Western Germany

TWO-WAY OFFENSIVE

By HENRY B. JAMESON
London, Nov. 6.—(P)—More than 1,800 American bombers and fighters attacked industrial targets in western Germany again today as the Allies carried the mightiest bombing siege of the war into the third straight day.

The main force from an armada of over 1,100 Eighth Airforce Liberators and Fortresses went for oil refineries in the Hamburg-Harburg region. Others attacked industrial and rail objectives in the Ruhr valley.

The bombers were escorted by 700 Mustangs and Thunderbolts.

British Mosquito bombers sailed deep into southwestern Germany and attacked the rail city of Stuttgart twice last night to keep the around-the-clock offensive going. The Reich was battered over the weekend from the west and south by approximately 9,000 American and British planes—virtually unopposed by the German air force—and there was every indication the all-out air offensive was continuing unchecked today.

The double-barreled attack on Stuttgart brought to 21 the number of German cities that felt the crash of hundreds of tons of Allied bombs between noon Saturday and last midnight.

One other place, Solingen, the "Sheffield of Germany", on the southern fringes of the Ruhr, also was bombed twice by RAF heavies.

Speaking from the executive mansion, 11 to 11:15 p. m., over all four major networks, the Republican nominee will have his final opportunity to tell why he thinks what he calls "the tired and quarrelsome" administration of President Roosevelt should not have a fourth term.

Although he has traveled 22,321 miles forth and back across the breadth of the United States in his quest for the 256 electoral votes, he needs to win many of Dewey's backers believe the fate of his bid for the presidency will be determined in New York, with 47 votes, and Pennsylvania, with 35.

In both states the Republicans apparently must depend on a heavy rural vote, which rain usually reduces. (The U. S. weather bureau forecasts fair weather in New York and most of Pennsylvania for Tuesday.)

The closing days of the GOP candidate's campaign have been devoted to the two states, with a rally in Massachusetts and a brief appearance in Maryland.

He has been pounding directly at President Roosevelt and the new deal, with such onslaughts as he unleashed at Madison Square Garden's mammoth rally Saturday night.

Auto Crashes Send Quartet Into Hospital

Police over the weekend galloped thither and yon investigating a trio of automobile accidents in which four persons were treated at the Warren General Hospital. At 12:50 p. m., a small wreck took place on Park street when a car, driven by Alfred Leuthold, RD 1, and a coupe driven by Robert S. McKelvey, also of RD 1 came together. Both were proceeding north on Park street when Leuthold stopped and McKelvey crashed into the rear. Damage of $100 was done to the McKelvey car.

The second crash came at 5:05 p. m. when a car owned by Paul Zock, 506 East street and one owned by John Guild, 12 Branch street, were damaged. Zock was driving east on Pennsylvania avenue and at Elm street the cars crashed. Damage is estimated at $35.

Another crack-up took place on Pennsylvania avenue east at 13th when a car owned by Hildegard Schrecongost, 314 Sedgewick street, Kane and driven by Acla Barker a US Army man stationed at Red Bridge. They were travelling east when they hit a parked car owned by E. D. Champion, Tiona, which was parked near the State Dinor on the south side of the avenue. This car was shoved into one owned by Elizabeth Ann Irwin, 627 W. Main street, Sheffield.

In the crash Barker sustained a bruised right knee and a small abrasion over the right eye. Hildegard Schrecongost had a small, deep cut on the back of her head, abrasions and bruises on the right leg. Both were treated and then discharged at the hospital.

All implicated in this wreck were taken to police headquarters and made statements. Hildegard Schrecongost arranged to pay for all damages.

Another wreck took place at the western end of the borough Saturday night when a car was wrecked and Seaman First Class Donald Enstrom, US Naval Training School at Grove City College, (Turn to Page Eleven)

Roosevelt and Dewey Expected to Confine Remaining Words to Appeals For Big Turnout

By J. W. DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer
The flood of argument—Republican and Democratic—that orators roar out to America every four years is about over for this time, and tomorrow the people will speak.

For 17 hours, over the various time zones of the country, an estimated 44,000,000 men and women (some guesses run up to 50,000,000) will decide finally whether they want Franklin D. Roosevelt to be president for a fourth term, or whether they want Governor Thomas E. Dewey to take over the job.

The great issue—who is the better man to speed victory and guide the peace?

Both the president who once was governor and the governor who would be president are expected to confine their remaining words largely to appeals for a big vote.

Mr. Roosevelt's last campaign appearance will be a brief address tonight on a program over the four major networks, from 10 to 11 p. m., EWT, under the sponsorship of the Democratic National Committee.

His schedule today, as customary, called for visits among communities neighboring his Hyde Park, N. Y., home, making talks here and there.

Governor Dewey, after a 15-minute talk over the four networks tonight at 11 p. m., EWT, will go to New York City tomorrow where he and Mrs. Dewey will cast their votes.

Dewey disclosed at Albany that, after his major campaigning was over, he had "almost lost" his voice.

Election eve found the vice presidential candidates back home, Republican Governor John W. Bricker at Columbus, Ohio, and Democratic Senator Harry S. Truman at Independence, Mo.

But, as the voters over the country well know, this isn't just a two-man election. There are also 1,114 candidates for governor, senator and representative, and the winners will figure importantly in peace-making and employment tasks.

The Republicans stand their best chance in 12 years of capturing the now closely-divided house, in which all seats are up for voting on this year.

New factors to be weighed include the service vote—estimated at 3,462,000 and not to be counted in some instances for weeks. In Pennsylvania, for example, 35 electoral votes could hinge on the service vote count Nov. 22.

And still another is the estimate that as many as 60 per cent of the total vote will be cast by women, a record percentage if borne out.

County Citizens Asked To Buy $750,000 in "E" Bonds

The Warren County War Finance Committee today announced the county quota for the Sixth War Loan as $3,050,000.

Donald C. Smith, who will head the Sixth War Loan drive in Warren county, pointed out that this quota is $640,000 less than that of the Fifth War Loan, but added that the hoped-for sale of "E" bonds and other securities available to individual purchasers is higher than the amount actually sold during the preceding drive, even though the respective quotas are smaller.

In the Fifth War Loan, Warren county's "E" Bond quota was $880,000, of which only $678,000 was subscribed. The quota for other securities bought by individuals was $750,000 and the end of the drive found a very disappointing return of only $390,000. Had it not been for the response of corporations, who bought $3,544,000 against a quota of $1,840,000, the Fifth War Loan would have failed to reach its goal in Warren county.

Warren county citizens are now asked to purchase at least $750,000 in "E" Bonds during the Sixth War Loan, and it is hoped that individual sales of other securities will be at least $550,000. The corporation quota is $1,750,000, only $90,000 less than that of the Fifth War Loan.

The dates for the drive, which is expected to raise 14 billion dollars to continue the battle against the Nazis and the Japs, are November 20 to December 16, but the kick-off in Warren county will be on Monday, November 13th, when there will be a special War Bond Show for all workers at the Columbus Theatre in Warren. At that time, the workers will be issued material for the drive and will see, in addition to special war and navy department battle pictures, not previously released, a dramatic stage presentation by a professional unit of the American Theatre Wing.

On the executive committee with Mr. Smith are M. H. Deardorff, R. W. Mackay and H. W. Conarro, all of whom have been active on the executive committee in the previous War Loan drives.

Mrs. P. L. Davis will head the Warren Borough division and H. W. Ledebur and G. C. Rickerson will be co-chairmen of the North Warren division.

The publicity committee for the Sixth War Loan is headed by H. J. Rue, with C. A. Pettibone as co-chairman. H. D. Harris again has charge of speakers and Walter Kiser will also serve again as chairman of Clubs and Lodges. R. W. Mackay heads the Banking and Investment committee and N. D. Paterson and Mrs. E. G. Hamilton are co-chairmen of the Business and Professional groups. John L. Blair is chairman of Industrial (Turn to Page Eleven)

U. S. Casualties In Italy Rise to 90,000

Rome—American troops alone have suffered at least 90,000 casualties in the 14-month-old Italian campaign and there still is no sign the Germans are pulling out of the war-torn country, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Allied ground commander, said. This apparently represented an increase of nearly 8,000 in the U. S. casualty toll in Italy since the Sept. 21 figure set by Secretary Stimson. In acknowledging that the Allied assault on the enemy's Gothic Line had come to an almost complete halt in the mud of the Po valley and the peaks of the Apennine mountains, Gen. Alexander said, "I can't tell how long it will take to drive them out, but it will be done."

Letters to the Editor

Editor Times-Mirror:
POSTWAR ERA—War will leave many problems unsolved at home and abroad in a postwar era. If we are to have "inexperience" at the head of the nation, just because politics seeks a change, no one can foretell the complications which will surely arise as the result of political expediency. We had better be safe than sorry.

Dear Sir:
Attention — Fathers, Mothers, Sisters, Brothers, Relatives and Friends of Service Men . . .

On Tuesday night, over the name of Organized Labor (the very group that President Roosevelt is often accused of coddling) in an ad sponsored or, at least signed by the Warren County Republican Committee, a direct attack was made against soldiers.

The article said:
"You know also that the 11,000,000 men now in the armed forces are going to get the first 11,000,000 jobs offered."

This quotation was in an ad, under headlines—in a full page that said, if you please—"How will the election affect your job?"

By this very article—printed and paid for—either by organized labor or by the Warren County Republican Committee, both—individually or collectively are asking definitely that you vote for Dewey to see to it that organized labor and Republicans get First Chance at the jobs that 11,000,000 soldiers should want or get.

Foolishly, in print, selfish workers, political and otherwise, untroubled by wars' real danger, with high war-time wages have here become Fat and Rich whilst our brave young men and women carry liberty's torch through the ravished world.

Foolish too—Republicans, Fat with 6 years of State patronage are willing to Visit (briefly) with Labor in an extravagant and much belated attempt to sweep the nation.

Veterans of any war should soundly and resolutely detest such tactics. If those, sponsoring this horrible ad were—or had been in the Fox-holes over there—such atrocities upon society would have not been.

This is not an attempt to tell you or what to vote for—but I write to nail "to the cross" and repeat their personal greed so that you may know what the plan to do. Anyone in Warren County—or elsewhere, who believes that the problems or objectives of Organized Labor are parallel with those of the Republican Party or simply dreaming—or, could it be scheming for, of and by the day when white and black are both the same—through the same glasses at the same time.

By this ad, so-called representative Labor and the Warren County Republicans want you to vote for Dewey so that they can keep their jobs and the returning veterans will be out in the cold—No Jobs—No Security—No Nothing—Able or Maimed.

Who should have these jobs? Veterans or—the absorptive combine of Labor and Republicans???

Scorecard—Veterans—No jobs—Labor and Republicans—All Jobs! What?

A Veteran.

Register Today How Many Hunters You Can Care For

This evening in the offices of the Department of Forests and Waters men of the Warren County Field and Stream Club will meet to discuss further plans for the publishing of lists of rooms and board available for hunters coming into the county. The club are anxious to get as complete a list as possible this fall. They realize that the time is short and in order to have the lists published in a small booklet ready for distribution all names must be in by November 15th when the registration will close.

It is urged that every person in the county who has a room that will be rented with board to hunters fill in the coupon attached and mail it to Postoffice Box 211 at once. There should be scores of homes in the town and in the county where rooms and board can be given visitors. Rooms and board for hundreds of hunters should be afforded.

Following is the coupon and it is urged that all who can possibly find room for men fill it out and mail it at once.

"WILSON" IN TECHNICOLOR COMES TO THE LIBRARY THEATRE TUESDAY

Woodrow Wilson had one superstition. Namely, that "13" was his lucky number.

As a boy, he was called "Tommy" — Thomas being his first name. But when he reached manhood he dropped the "Thomas" preferring to be known as "Woodrow Wilson". That name had 13 letters.

True to his hunch, it became a famous name. Especially after 1913, when he took office as President of the United States.

Darryl F. Zanuck's "Wilson," the Technicolor picture at the Library Theatre Tuesday, reveals the story of the most dramatic years in the life of the World War I President. And the actor playing the title role is right in line with the Wilson superstition about good luck being attached to the number "13".

Alexander Knox also has 13 letters in his name, and coincidentally, he has been an actor exactly 13 years.

Also prominently featured in the brilliant cast are Charles Coburn, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Thomas Mitchell, Ruth Nelson, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Vincent Price, William Blythe and Mary Anderson.

To Back the Invasion—Buy More Bonds

This is the house that War Bonds will build in 1954

It belongs to Mr. and Mrs. George Jones who are working and saving in 1944.

Today, the Joneses are buying all the bonds they can afford. Today, they are adding a modest sum to the family bank account to have ready cash for emergencies. They hardly realize it now but they are not only helping their Country by working and saving—they're building a home of their own, bond by bond.

Mrs. Jones says, "When we started buying bonds, we called them Defense Bonds, then War Bonds. Now we call them Home Bonds. We know about how much our new house will cost and we worked out in black and white a plan of saving which will provide the money at the right time."

The architect's plans are yet to be drawn, but their plan of saving is well under way. And any home owner will tell you that a blueprint is just so much paper without money to make the hammers sing.

Wonder what houses will be like in 1954? Air conditioned, of course. Deep-freeze facilities. Heating by means of pipes in the floor or walls, perhaps. Dish washing and waste disposal units, refrigerators and ovens with glass doors. It may be too early to plan your home, but it is not too early to plan saving for it. Buy all the War Bonds you can afford, put them in your safe deposit vault, and let them work for you. Put something in your bank account regularly so that you will have ready cash for emergencies. And sit back and watch your house being built, bond by bond... dollar by dollar.

Help the nation's efforts to keep your living costs DOWN, the buying power of your dollar UP.

Hawley Vacates Title Of World's Greatest Wildcatter

The decision to curtail their operations elsewhere will not affect the plans of Northern Ordnance, Inc., for extensive development of oil properties in Pennsylvania, according to an announcement by G. S. Davidson, secretary and treasurer of the company.

Mr. Davidson, in a statement at Tulsa, Oklahoma, said that due to unsatisfactory operating conditions the company will end the extensive wildcatting program which it has had under way in the Southwest, Middle West and Rocky Mountain states since the early part of 1943.

Davidson said that the company will continue to operate its producing properties and will retain its holdings of development and undiscovered acreage. The principal operating officials connected with the Tulsa office have resigned, and headquarters for the oil operations of the company in the future will be transferred from Tulsa to Minneapolis.

Northern Ordnance, Inc., is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Northern Pump company, of Minneapolis. The operating company, which is a large manufacturer of war products, attracted widespread attention in 1943 when it announced that it would engage in the production end of the petroleum industry.

The company is credited with drilling more than 200 wildcat and producing tests, largely through farm-out arrangements with oil companies. The production resulting from these exploratory operations is small.

The Pennsylvania properties taken over by Northern Ordnance during the early part of this year include upwards of 16,000 acres of oil and gas lands in Venango, Forest and Warren counties. An extensive development, including the drilling of a large number of wells and installation of large recovery facilities, is now under way and will be continued, according to the announcement by Mr. Davidson.

The first properties taken over in the Pennsylvania grade region were those of the Clinger Oil and Gas company, comprising about 10,000 acres in Forest and Warren counties. Later acquisitions included the National Petroleum company properties of 5,545 acres in Warren and Venango counties, the McCormick Oil company properties of 160 acres in Venango county, and the properties of L. C. McKinney, comprising about 500 acres in the Grand Valley district of Warren county.

The Pennsylvania properties acquired by the company contained more than 1,400 producing wells with an annual production in excess of 150,000 barrels.

An extensive development program was started soon after the properties were acquired, and this development has centered largely in the Grand Valley district, where a large number of wells have already been drilled.

VISIT FROM STUDENTS
Seventeen members of the Clarendon school with their teacher Miss Firth, made an inspection visit to the Times-Office Friday afternoon and watched the edition "put to bed". Those in the group were Elizabeth Larson, Doris Hathorne, Betty Wingard, Tommie Barbara, Elizabeth Dunham, Marcella Brian, Richard Campbell, Diana Kipp, Twila Hildum, Kay Miller, Robert Atkins, George Wilbur, Jimmy Albaugh, Anne Nobles, Doris Barer, Mary Bauer and Robert Donaldson.

Root Crops in State Helped By Sept. Rain

Harrisburg, Nov. 6—Beneficial effects of September rains were such that fairly heavy marketings of root vegetables from Pennsylvania commercial areas are expected by the end of October and early November, according to latest reports by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service, State Department of Agriculture.

Yields of cabbage in the southeast section so far have been better than anticipated. The crops developed rapidly. Harvesting will be active in all areas until about mid-November. In the northern areas Danish cabbage grew rapidly after the rains. However, much is spoiling in the fields due to cracking and considerable quantities will likely be used for sauerkraut.

Many carrots rotted in ground in the Bucks-Philadelphia area since the mid-September hurricane, and marketings have been rather light. Late plantings are making good growth. Harvesting in volume will continue through November. Late beet supplies are expected to become heavier by the end of October. Many carrots and beets will be stored for winter marketing.

Celery in the southeast has recovered somewhat from the stunted and blighted condition prior to the recent rains but is making slow growth. Much of the crop will be small sizes and supplies will be light because of reduced plantings. Harvest is not expected to peak before mid-November.

With favorable weather, spinach should be in good supply by November 1 from the Bucks-Philadelphia area. Late plantings which will likely be carried over for spring harvest are showing fairly even stands.

Early October rains spoiled that portion of the tomato crop remaining on vines. Only a few green fruits were left to pick before the heavy frost of October 16. Yields of "greenwraps" in northern countries were about average, despite dry weather.

PRELUDE TO THE BIG PUSH

English and Canadian forces in Holland are fighting and winning one of the war's most important battles. It is not one of the spectacular battles, as compared with the invasions of France and the Philippines, the dash across France, or even the reduction of Aachen. But it will certainly rank as one of the decisive steps toward Allied victory.

Slugging doggedly, striking brilliantly with Commando tactics, fighting waist deep in water for possession of a rise of ground, these tough, stout-hearted fighters have struggled for the great prize of Antwerp. And soon supplies for the invading Allies will be streaming through this great port. Then it can safely be prophesied that the really big pushes will commence.

Antwerp is one of the world's chief harbors and ports. It was so 400 years ago, when as many as 500 ships would enter the harbor in one day, 1000 foreign merchants were numbered among the cosmopolitan population, and 2000 carts a week would lumber in and out with the goods of a flourishing European commerce.

By the treaty of Muenster the Schelde was closed to navigation from 1648 to 1863, with two brief interruptions. But in the years that followed the reopening Antwerp again became a major port. Natural inland waterways were supplemented by a system of canals. These, with the growing Allied hold on rail transportation in liberated France and Holland, will soon be speeding material almost to the fronts from Antwerp's 30 miles of docks.

Of course the Germans have destroyed many installations. But they cannot hope to impede Allied progress seriously, not with the bitter knowledge they already have of Allied engineering ingenuity and improvisation.

The inspiration that led to the floating concrete harbors towed from Britain (which German air reconnaissance saw but couldn't fathom) enabled the beachhead to become the world's second largest port in the early days of the invasion. Only New York harbor accommodated more traffic. The trucks of the "Redball Express" and the engineers who laid oil pipelines almost as fast as the armies could march formed a connecting link between the improvised harbor and the fighting men.

It has been superb teamwork, to the glory of G. I. stevedores and truck drivers as well as infantrymen. Now, with Antwerp at the Allies' disposal, the Nazis can prepare themselves as best they can for the final, smashing blows.

RUN NIGHT WIRE

Because of the intense interest in the coming election the Times-Mirror will operate a night wire of The Associated Press tomorrow evening.

The service will start shortly after eight o'clock and continue until the early hours of Tuesday morning.

It is quite likely election trends will not be known before midnight, but this office will receive concise returns as they come over the leased wire, along with those from Warren county and the 19th congressional district.

Whether or not you have children in the public schools, Warren borough school teachers invite you to visit your nearest building during National Education Week, which begins today. "Education for New Tasks" is the theme of the week's observance, which is sponsored by the National Educational Association in cooperation with the American Legion.

A crusading army of 77,000 British housewives have signed a petition to Parliament asking that they be given a legal share in the family income for housewifely services rendered. Maybe British wives are different, but it hardly seems possible that their American sisters would tackle the slow and cumbersome process of congressional action for the same ends when it's so easy to go through a sleeping husband's pockets.

Remember, the ballot is secret. You may exercise your conscience in voting, and no person can know how you vote unless you choose to tell him. Above all, it is your patriotic duty and an obligation you owe to our men and women in the armed forces to go to the polls and cast your ballot tomorrow.

The polls will be open from seven a. m. until eight p. m. You can help to avoid a last-minute rush by voting early.

RUSSIA'S seven-stamp set marking the 20th year since the death of Lenin, one of three new commemorative sets to reach this country from the Soviet Union recently, is virtually a re-issue of the six-stamp set issued in 1924 to mark the tenth year after Lenin's death.

Five of the six designs of the 1924 set are repeated in the 1944 set, including the supposed portrait of Lenin, as a child. Instead of the "Demonstration before Lenin's Mausoleum" (Scott's A190) design, a view of the Mausoleum with the Kremlin in the background has been substituted as the sixth design while portraits of Lenin and Stalin (Scott's A191) appear on two values of the new set. Values of the new stamps also differ from the 1924 denominations. In addition to the 40 kopeck value, a second 30-k value pictures Lenin and Stalin, the 45-k picture of Lenin as a youth, the 50-k as Lenin appeared in 1913 and a 60-k portrays Lenin as he spoke at the Putilov Works in October, 1918. The Lenin Mausoleum and Kremlin appear on the one ruble value and Stalin and Lenin on the three ruble value.

Another new Russian set of four stamps pictures medals of the "Great Patriotic War," the Soviet name for the present conflict, which have been received in both imperforate and perforate form. The medal of the Order of the Great Patriotic War is pictured on the 15-kopeck red, the Order of Alexander Nevsky on a 20-k blue, the Order of Suvorov on a 30-k green and the Order of Kutuzov on a 60-k red.

An earlier arrival was the two-stamp "Day of the United Nations" set which features the flags of the Soviet Russia, the United States and Great Britain. Values are 60-k and three rubles.

LATEST of the Central and South American countries to pay postal tribute to the Red Cross is Venezuela, which has issued four regular postage and seven airmail stamps to mark the 30th anniversary of the Red Cross and the 37th anniversary of Venezuela's adherence to the organization. Previously, the Dominican Republic issued four stamps and Nicaragua has announced that it will issue three airmail commemoratives next month.

Venezuela's commemoratives are unique in that the four postage values each featuring the Venezuelan and Red Cross flags, were for the second time since the stamps were issued in 1929, Salvador has surcharged her San Francisco Golden Gate Exposition commemorative airmail issue to earn the stamps a third listing in the Standard Catalogue. The latest surcharge is identical with that of 1943 except that the numerals are considerably smaller in size. The surcharges are: 15 on 15 centavos; 20 on 30-c, and 25 on 40-c.

—George A. Scott

FOUR new U. S. stamps will appear between Oct. 30 and Nov. 2, with a three-cent commemorative marking the 50th anniversary of motion pictures as the latest addition to the list. A fifth stamp calling attention to the Red Cross-Blood Plasma program also is contemplated, according to Postmaster General Frank C. Walker.

The motion picture commemorative will be placed on sale Oct. 31 at Hollywood, Calif., and New York. It portrays servicemen and women watching a motion picture at a south Pacific base.

Collectors of first day covers may send a maximum of ten addressed envelopes to the postmasters at Los Angeles 32, Calif., and New York 1, N. Y., with cash or money orders to cover the cost of stamps to be affixed.

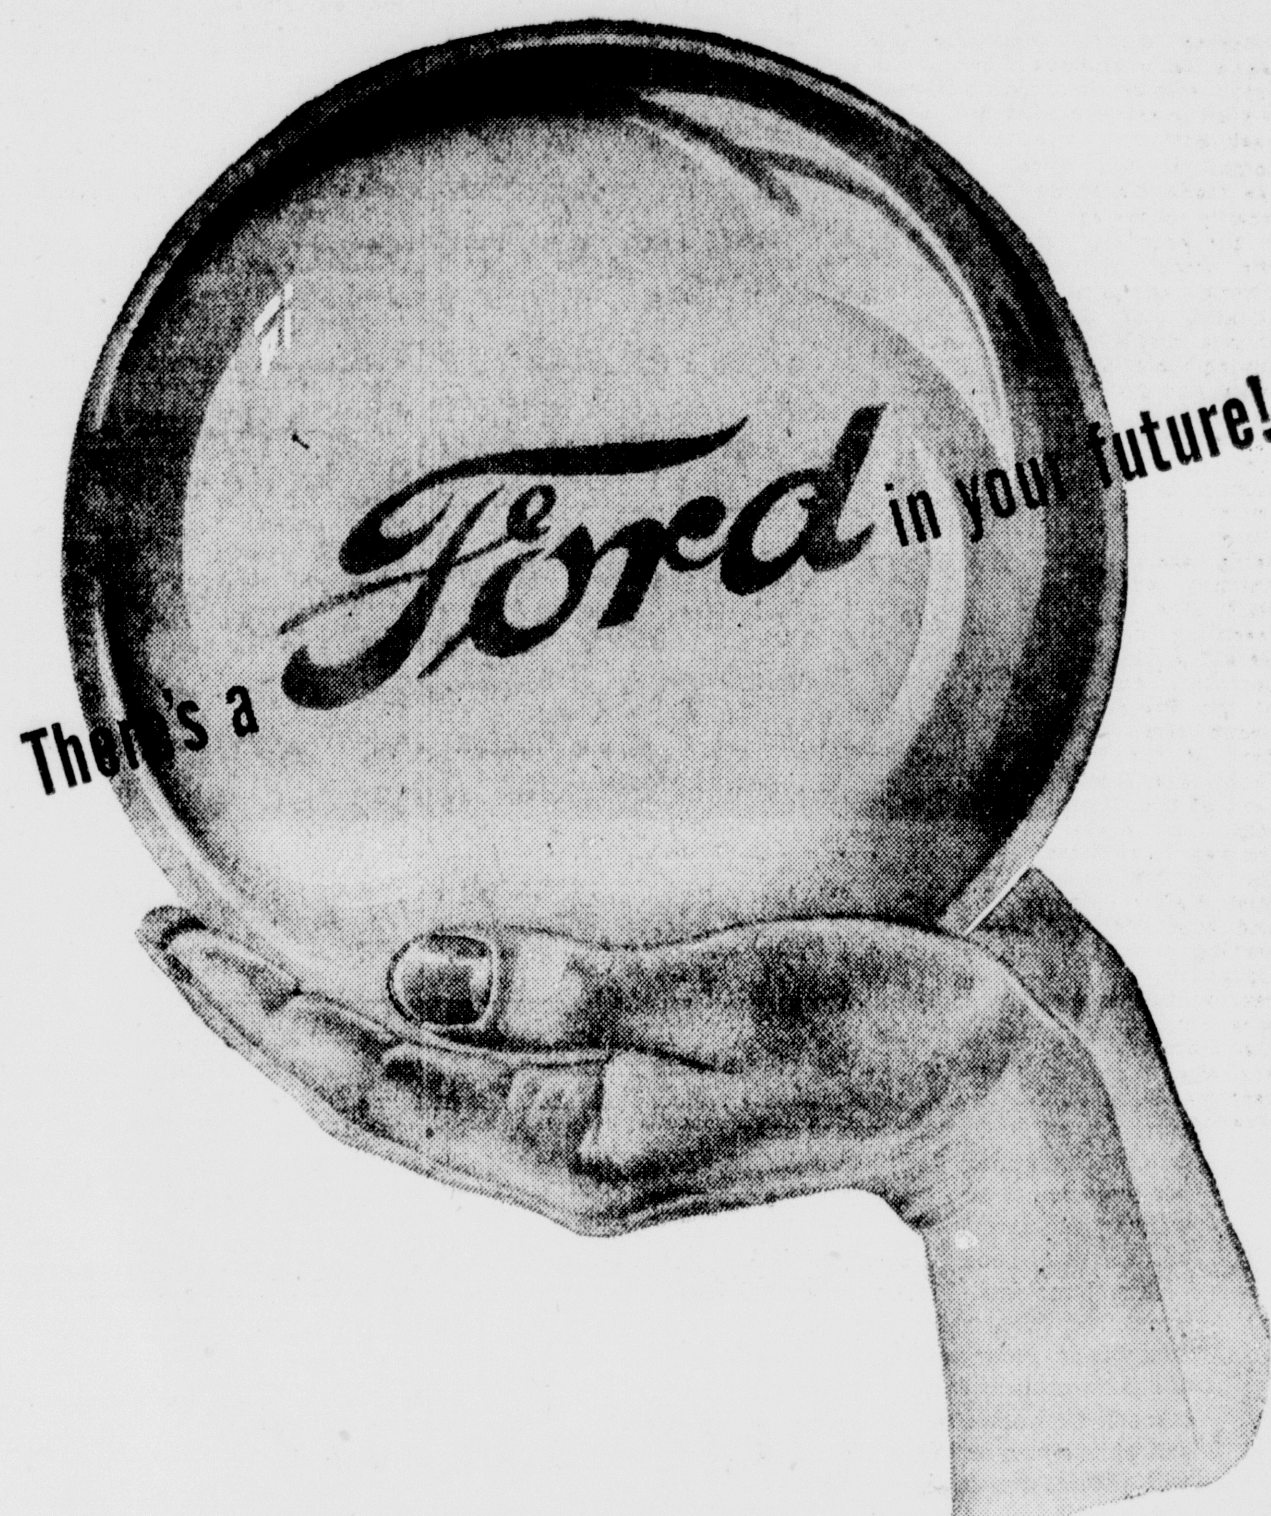

The new 13 and 17-cent special delivery stamps will be first placed on sale at Washington Oct. 31 and the five-cent Korea "flag stamp" will go on sale at Washington Nov. 2. First day cover orders should be mailed to the Postmaster, Washington 13, D. C., for all three stamps.

The Post Office department also has announced that the Idaho and Vermont Statehood issues of 1940 and 1941 have been removed from sale at the Philatelic Agency. First day sales of the three-cent Philippine commemorative Sept. 27 totalled $31,680.24 from the sale of 1,056,008 stamps. There were 214,865 first day covers cancelled.

RUSSIA continues to issue commemoratives. . . J. and H. Stolow of New York report three new stamps honoring Chapayev, Shchors and Lazo, described as heroes of the Civil War, are Moscow's latest contributions to philately. . . The 2½-cent stamp issued by the Irish Free State to mark the 100th anniversary of the death of Brother Edmund Ignatius Rice, founder of the Christian Brothers of Ireland. . . Cuba has re-issued its victory stamp, which is obligatory for all mail, in gray instead of orange.

United Through Books is this year's National Book Week theme, which will be observed in Warren and all over the nation during the week of November 12th. The Community Book Week Committee has made plans for the most extensive observance ever planned in the borough. There will be two community story hours for different age groups, a radio dramatization for children, numerous unusual displays, reading and book buying lists, books, book games, talks, and group visits to the public library.

The public library has secured the cooperation of several community groups, which are represented on the committee. Mrs. Olive Archibald Huff, chairman, is being assisted by Miss Georgia Spinney, of the public library staff; Mrs. Clarence Beckley, representing the Woman's Club; Mrs. Gerald Archibald, children's department consultant and president of the Pre-School Child Study Group; Mrs. Walter Pearson, president of the Pre-School Mothers' Club; Mrs. Russell Hanson, president of the Young Mothers' Club; Mrs. Carl Albrecht, representing the new East Street Mothers' Club for the first and second grades; Mrs. Walter Mathyer, president, and Mrs. Melvin Ahlgren, representing the Community P. T. A. Council; Miss Dorothy Newell, representing the College Club; Mrs. Paul Harrington, president of the Home Street Mothers' Club; and Miss Mathilda Steinhoff, representing the Warren Borough Teachers Association.

Displays will be more extensive this year. The most unusual display at the library will be one of dolls of different countries. The E. D. Everts Hardware Company is lending the library a special display case which will insure the dolls protection. Anyone willing to lend a foreign doll for Book Week is asked to call either Mrs. Huff or Miss Spinney at the library.

In addition to many special book displays at the library, the Clare Tree Major posters, and the book games, there will be exhibits in the Warren National Bank, Metzger-Wright Company store, Kinnear's, and Kresge's. Special exhibits will also be taken to many clubs during Book Week, and lists will be available.

... your hour of decision is at hand!

The menace of Communism is here NOW—TODAY. It threatens our form of government—our system of business and industry—our professions—our religions—all our freedoms. You don't want this to happen to your America.

A vote for Dewey and the entire Republican ticket tomorrow, November 7th, is a vote against the unholy alliance of Roosevelt, Browder and Hillman. Vote against Communism... vote for Americanism—vote the Republican ticket.

The Communists have endorsed Roosevelt—the Fourth Term Candidate. Don't forget that when the king pin of Communists, Earl Browder, was safely in jail, President Roosevelt opened the door and set him loose.

Our dead on foreign fields must not have died in vain. We must make sure now...and for all time...on November 7...that this Nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom...that the American way of life "shall not perish from the earth."

It's for you to decide:

SKY HOOK

A device known as a "sky hook" drops supplies of food, medicine, and mail from cargo planes to military personnel in isolated spots. It is better for this use than a parachute, since in ordinary winds it will land almost directly beneath the point of release.

WAC Clothes Are No Longer Out of Date

"Criticism of the uniform of the Women's Army Corps are out of date," said Lt. Esther Pitts, Recruiting Officer of the Erie WAC Recruiting Office. Cpl. Harry S. Goldstein and Pfc. Zelda M. Kutchal of the Erie office, will be in Warren on Tuesday from 2 until 9 p. m., with offices in the Y. W. C. A.

"Some women used to use that argument for not enlisting," said Lt. Pitts, "but the Wacs have smart olive drab uniforms, utility coats and overcoats, and in addition they have the new off-duty dress for dining and dancing. The same off-duty dress is worn by officers and enlisted women."

"Exemplifying American sports design, the off-duty dress is a mellow-horizon tan that flatters any skin tone. It is of wool crepe material with exaggerated shoulders that make the waist look small. The six-gored skirt gives freedom of movement."

"The off-duty dress is worn with the smart new overseas hat with pumps and brown matching bag. The same accessories may be used with the summer version, which is a creamy, off-white beige. Through extremely feminine, the off-duty frock retains a military look. It is of shirtwaist design, with three-quarter zipper front. Full or three quarters sleeves are optional. Brass buttons fasten the pockets, there are shoulder epaulets, and the insignia of service are worn on the points of the shirtmaker collar. Like everything else, in GI Jane's wardrobe, the off-duty dress is issued free."

Women between the ages of 20 and 50 years, who wish to know more about the WAC, are urged to call upon the recruiters from Erie. They will be pleased to answer any questions put to them. 22,000 more Wacs are now urgently needed for work with the Medical Corps in highly technical fields. The Army will train Medical Wacs at special schools. In addition, more than 200 other jobs are open to those who enlist at this time. These jobs range from administrative work to mechanical, precision duties.

Even After This Happens, American Women Can't Relax

Even after Killer Hitler himself throws in the sponge, American women must not relax on saving used fats in their kitchens. Because it's the Japs, not the Germans, who still have those territories in the Pacific that used to supply us with one billion pounds a year! Our fat salvage job isn't done until we blast the Nips out.

In the meantime, every drop of used fats is urgently needed to help make the tons of munitions, medicines, synthetic rubber and soaps that are needed for final victory. So keep saving until V-J Day! Remember, the government gives you 2 free red points for every pound.

every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven!

A time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;

A time to keep, and a time to cast away;

A time for war, and a time for peace.

Ecclesiastes, Chapter III

Today, for the sake of your Country and for your own individual sake, is a time to plant... a time to spend less and to save more... a time to make sure that you, too, will share in the good things which money can bring when it is the right time to spend.

If you will plan to spend sensibly and to save steadily you can have worth-while dollars for the worth-while comforts of life after the crisis of this war is over and we get back to normal.

Expect to spend the money you are making. But plan to spend it at the right time when it will do most for you. That time is not today. This is "a time to keep"—a time to save your money and to put it in War Bonds.

Help the nation's efforts to keep your living costs DOWN, the buying power of your dollar UP.

And this stone, which I have set for a pillar, shall be God's house; and of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee.—Genesis 28:22.

READING & WRITING BY Edwin Seaver and Robin McKinn

The first two white women to cross the Rocky Mountains, and thus insure themselves undying fame in the annals of American history, were Narcissa Prentiss Whitman and Eliza Hart Spalding. They were alike only in that they both were intent on bringing the Gospel to the poor benighted Indians. Narcissa was blonde, beautiful and high-spirited. Today she might be called a glamour girl. Eliza was plain, less brilliant, but had a more steady temperament.

These are two of the pioneer women whose stories Nancy Wilson Ross tells in her book, "Westward the Women." You'll read here also of Bethenia Owens, an ex-milliner who became a doctor, and who, in spite of scandal and opprobrium, performed the first male autopsy ever done by a woman; of six gentle Belgian nuns who braved the terrors of the unknown to go to Oregon and teach needlework and litany to the "children of the forest"; of Sacajawea, the Shoshone Indian girl who acted as guide to the Lewis and Clark Expedition. There were almost no hardships which these women, and others like them, did not learn to endure.

Women were scarce in the Far West in those days. Many eager men, anxious to escape the stigma of being labelled a "bachelor," thought nothing of riding their ponies right up to the doors of respectable Portland houses, remaining on their saddles, rapping on the door with a stick, until the housewife appeared. "Good morning to you, ma'am, are you married?" they would ask. If the reply was yes they tipped their hats and rode on. If it was no they immediately proposed.

The Book-of-the-Month Club announces a dual selection for January—"Story of a Secret State" by Jan Karski, an account of the Polish underground, and "Anything Can Happen" by George and Helen W. Papashvili, a hilarious tale of an immigrant from Stalin's home country, Georgia, in the Caucasus.

With paper rationing getting stricter, it's often first come, first serve, as far as your favorite book is concerned. Last year when the Illustrated Modern Library was launched, there were four times as many orders as books; and this year the demand is so great that the new titles have to be rationed. Some important new titles are "Leaves of Grass" illustrated by Boardman Robinson; Emerson's "Essays" with drawings by John Stewart Curry; and Franklin's "Autobiography" illustrated by Thomas Benton.

Sixty Gather at Party Honoring D. C. Brasingtons

About 60 relatives, neighbors and other friends called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy F. McCloskey, Park street, on Sunday for the open house held to mark the 53rd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Brasington, Warren R. 1.

A large basket of white and gold baby mums centered the pretty table, where two grandchildren, Elizabeth Ann Johnson and Lois McCloskey, presided. Yellow mums and rosebuds were worn in a lovely coronet by the bride of 53 years and Mr. Brasington had a yellow rosebud for his boutonniere.

A daughter, Mrs. Paul Davis, of Erie, was ill and unable to be present, but three children from Warren, Ralph Brasington, Mrs. Freeman A. Johnson and Mrs. McCloskey, with two other grandchildren, Marilyn Brasington and Jean McCloskey, were in attendance. Two other grandchildren are in the armed services and a third is in training as a cadet nurse.

Guests included many who were present for the golden wedding party held for the couple three years ago and throughout the day they had many calls and greetings and were recipients of many attractive remembrances of the occasion.

Present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. H. R. McCloskey and two children, Carol and Patty, of Corry.

Last evening, a family dinner was served to 13 persons and Ralph Brasington took movies; also showed the movies he had taken when the golden wedding party was held at his home.

R. H. Trusler Buys Building For Feed Store

Robert H. Trusler has completed the purchase of the brick structure on Water street which houses the Trusler Feed Store and he will continue the business which he has so successfully conducted in the same building. The building was built expressly for use as a flour and feed store and on the two upper floors are modern apartments.

Mr. Trusler entered the feed business with his father, the late Frank Trusler when it was started on November 15, 1912 and in 1926 purchased a half interest with his father and on his father's death purchased the other half interest. He has increased the business in a most successful manner and today serves a clientele covering a radius of 25 miles handling the best lines of various feeds and flour.

The store is one of the oldest in the city handling a line of feeds and flours and has been at the same location for 32 years.

ARCHIE BUTTS CAUGHT

Archie Butts, Erie county soldier bandit for whom the local and state police have hunted fruitlessly several times has been captured in Philadelphia. Butts, a private in the U. S. Army deserted and entered on a crime career. Several times local police have been notified he was headed this way and each time he circled the town and got away.

HUNTERS WELCOME SNOW

Hunters who have been waiting for rain or snow before entering the lists as champs afield welcomed the dampness that came over the weekend. It put the woods and fields in better condition for hunting and scores left this morning for a bout with bunnies and the birds and squirrels. The snow which covers the ground is also a safeguard from forest fires, a fact welcomed by the forestry employees.

CIVIC CLUB

One of the principal items to come before the North Warren Civic Club when it meets at eight o'clock this evening will be a report on the very successful Halloween carnival. There will also be an address by Attorney A. C. Flick, Jr., on what to do with Germany and it is hoped all members will be on hand.

READY FOR WINTER

Old man winter when he lets go his first big snow will find one outfit in Warren all ready and waiting for him. Up at the Auto Body Company, Pennsylvania avenue, east at Park street has a snow plow just rearing to go. It has been formed from an old Ford car and the way it can tear into snow is a caution. The Auto Body shop is located on a triangular corner which gives the boys plenty of snow to take care of and when the snow came last winter it tore into the drifas and had the walks around the property and also around the Carlson Service station just opposite in 12 minutes flat. This year the plow has had a few refinements added and its joints greased and radiator filled all ready for action.

132ND TRIP ENJOYABLE

The second of this season, and the club's 132nd trip, was another enjoyable event for the nine persons who joined the trip of the Allegheny Hiking Club yesterday afternoon. Driving to a point slightly beyond the end of the concrete road, the hikers walked up to the top of the hill on Route 337, and visited the Rocky Gap section.

Then crossing the road toward the east, they walked along the plateau between the head of Morrison Run and Sill run, and a part of the "laurel trail", and returned by this route to the black-top road and the starting point, covering 6 1/2 miles of pleasant walking in the first early winter snowstorm. Those participating, including three newcomers, were: Donald Dumond, Etta Gustafson, Joanna Mackay, R. W. Mackay, Catherine Reed, Ike Reed, Eleanor Messerly Sonnett, Clara Ullrich, and Pfc. Carl Subak, an interpreter at the North Bridge PW Camp.

Powdered lupine seeds with water were used by ancient Roman and Egyptian women to wash the skin.

WARREN COUNTY'S 6th WAR LOAN QUOTA IS $3,050,000!

THE WAR ISN'T OVER . . .

Let's not fool ourselves on that score. Read the letters from the men and women doing the fighting; they'll tell you it's far from a pushover—a long, long way from being all wrapped up and won. And, expensive as the European war is, and will continue to be until Germany is completely defeated, the Pacific war is more costly. We at home have got to give our men and women everything they need to WIN, regardless of how much it takes—regardless of how long it takes. That's why there's another War Bond Drive now—why YOU have got to buy EXTRA Bonds during this campaign starting

D-DAY PLUS 160 . . .

That's November 13—160 days from the successful invasion of the continent—and THE DAY the 6th War Loan Drive starts in Warren County. The quota for the county is $3,050,000. A big quota? You bet! An impossible quota? No indeed! But it does mean there can't be any who shrug off their personal responsibility to buy EXTRA Bonds, and leave it to the other fellow. Every Bond counts—and counts BIG. For just see

WHAT $3,050,000 WILL BUY. .

It will buy better than FIVE B-29 Superforts that cost $600,000 each. It will buy SIX HUNDRED AND ONE P-47 Thunderbolts. Most important, IT WILL BUY MEN'S LIVES! Yes, for that money spent on vitally needed war supplies now will help shorten the war. And every day, every hour, every minute we at home can help shorten the war means MORE of our men and women coming home! That's the important thing; getting MORE of them back SOONER! And that's why

WE CAN'T--WE WON'T--FAIL . .

When you stop and think that YOU are not giving your money to accomplish this, but only lending it at a good rate of interest, can you deep down in your heart think of anything more important than getting every penny over rock-bottom expenses into war bonds? By doing that you're helping the War effort—you're helping get more of the thousands of Warren County men and women home safely—and you're helping YOURSELF! We in Warren County have an enviable record of achievement in past drives. In this critical 6th War Loan, we CAN'T--WE WON'T--fail. Plan NOW to

Life Brightens for Saipan Children

At top, a little Saipan boy's face beams as he races around the ring of his playmates to "take" one of them. The youngster above, in his homemade go-cart, doesn't seem very happy about it. "Mother's Little Helper," left, taking home the family water bottle, trudges along with her little brother, almost as big as she, strapped to her back.

New worlds are opening to the children of Saipan as a result of the U. S. occupation of this former Jap-held island. Thin, undernourished bodies slowly regain strength through proper diet in the civilian camp erected under U. S. Army supervision, where the birth rate is from 10 to 15 babies a day. Photos above show some of the aspects of the happier life liberation from Japs has brought.

WHAT... A Woman Loan Manager?

SURE—why not? I'll admit, up to December 7, 1941, it would have been a bit unusual to find a woman running a large loan office—but today, with women ferrying bombers, welding at shipyards, and making munitions, "Personal" feels there's certainly nothing unusual about having a woman loan manager.

And neither do I! For after all, I have had 15 years of experience lending money to folks, and I've learned how honest and willing people are to pay their debts.

Lending cash to hundreds of people every day from coast to coast has taught "Personal" how to do it. We get a lot of satisfaction out of giving good service.

"Personal" cuts out all fuss and makes it a simple matter to get cash, from $10 to $250 or more, on just signature, furniture or auto.

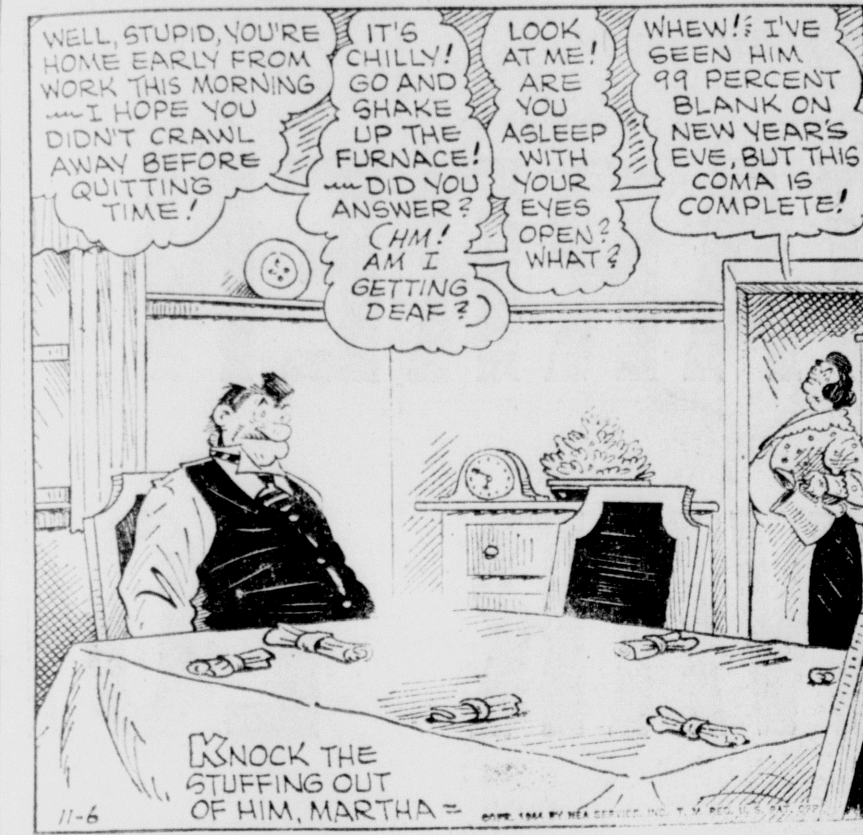

Special Loan Service

We give special attention to women who need loans, and we try to make it as convenient as possible for folks who find it hard to come in. Loans can be made by mail or in just one visit to the office. Why not come in today and ask for me by name.

Germans Puncture Food Tins to Prevent Captured Yanks From Hoarding for Escape

By PETER EDSON
Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

When an American soldier is captured by the Germans, he is taken first to a place called a "ag," (condensation of the German words Dursch Lager), which is a "going through" camp. It is an interrogation center and no man is in a Dulag long.

At the International Red Cross camp, action as soon as an American service man arrives at a Dulag, and even before his next in may be notified that he has been taken prisoner. From the Dulag the man will get two packages. The first is a capture kit containing pajamas, towel, soap, water, gloves, socks, razor, vitamins, pipe and tobacco, shoes, comb, chewing gum and a box of cigarettes. The whole package weighs about 10 pounds and is valued at approximately $13. A thousand of these capture kits have been donated by the Red Cross. They are packed by volunteers in Philadelphia—many of them relatives of Americans held prisoner overseas.

The second package is an 11-ounce food carton which he will receive every week to supplement the insufficient German prison camp diet. The German diet is only about 1500 calories a day, and the Red Cross package of 14,000 calories supplies an extra 2000 calories a day.

A typical carton will be filled with milk powder, oleo, cheese, two cups of meat, fish, two of soap, Vitamin C tablets, chocolate, chocolate hard candy, half a pound of sugar, two cups of coffee, biscuits, liver, five packages of cigarettes.

Some 48,000 of these cartons are now packed every day at four centers in Brooklyn, New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis, the Red Cross volunteers doing the packing. The Germans have permitted the Red Cross to stockpile these packages, at all camps where prisoners are held. Generally speaking, a 15 week's reserve is on hand. Warehouses in which these cartons are stored are under double lock—one key being held by a German, the other by an American soldier who is designated a spokesman for all the Yanks at each camp.

Right now, the Red Cross is using special Christmas cartons for all German camps for Americans. These were packed last August but are something right at home, including even a collection of photographs of American cities, towns and country scenes for the boys to swap among themselves. The food contents would be a good list for any Christmas stocking—canned butter, figs, s, turkey, plum pudding, ham, s, tea, bouillon, candy, nuts, ring gum and tobacco. Each carton has one game—chess, kers, cribbage, bridge or gin my sets—also for swapping. The value of this Christmas carton is put at about $5. The regular weekly carton is valued at $3.75.

One of the German precautions to puncture all food tins as they are issued, to pre-empt hoarding and use in escape. They are, in addition, medical sewing kits given to the men as they are captured, and for men itialized, there are other ex-om a Dulag, the American ive will be moved to a per-ent base camp—a Stalag, or m Lager, a Stalag Luft for orce men, an Oflog for of-s, a Lazarete or Spital which is a hospital camp. In all, there are in Germany some 47 principal camps, 50 to 75 secondary camps and several hundred work centers.

"When you are questioned, by no matter what enemy authority, you must give only your name, rank, and serial number. Beyond that, there is no information which the enemy can legally force from you." Thus are Yanks advised in a War Department pamphlet explaining rights of war prisoners. This picture is from the pamphlet.

All these camps are inspected three ways: By the Swiss government in accordance with the Geneva convention, by the International Red Cross, which furnishes medical supplies, food, clothes and special welfare messages, and by the War Prisoner Air Committee of the International YMCA which looks after social welfare, games, books, amusements, study courses. One of the Y's great achievements was to bring lumber from Sweden to build a stage for amusement centers at the big camps.

The prisoners can take advantage of the Armed Forces Institute Correspondence school course, conducted out of Madison, Wis. One of the Red Cross special services is the preparation of news bulletins and camp newspapers. They run four to five pages of general sports, politics and home news, plus local camp news. Some of the editorials are hot. One burn-up job was an open letter to American workmen going on strike, telling them that if they didn't like conditions at home to come on over and live in the prison camps awhile.

Officers and non-coms don't have to work, but the enlisted men do. Officers are paid by the German government amounts not to exceed the pay for equal rank in the German army, but this pay is not deducted from the U. S. Army pay held in trust during captivity. A private gets no allowance, but if he works he gets the equivalent of 70 pfennings, or about 28 cents a day. Non-coms get about seven and a half marks a month, or $3, and can volunteer for work. All pay is in canteen script, but there is nothing in the German canteens to buy except razor blades and watery beer.

BROKE CUSTOM
Mackinaw Island, last stronghold of the horse, permitted an automobile drawn by horses to come on the island as part of the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the arrival of Jean Nicolet, French explorer. All gasoline had to be removed from the tank before the automobile was landed.

Chapter 21

NEW YORK!
Cherry jumped out of her bunk and piled on clothes hastily—a heavy coat over her uniform, gloves. It was not six o'clock yet, and she could imagine how cold it was on deck. Even in the airless cabin it made her shiver. But she must—she simply must—see what was happening out there! A tug hooted somewhere close, and the small, friendly sound hurried her on.

At first, after the electric light inside, she thought it was still dark. But after a few minutes she could see the banks of the river and make out the dim outlines of buildings. She hurried aft and looked at the Statue of Liberty, a pale blur in the half light. But there she was on her rocky island, the busy holding ferries. Sounds of freedom. Mentally Cherry saluted her. Lights twinkled palely along the shore, and ferries plying over to New Jersey hung rows of fairy lanterns. The Coromandel was hardly moving, and over everything hung the frozen hush before the dawn.

Walking forward, Cherry slipped and nearly fell on the deck. Then she discovered the thin film of ice that coated the planks, the bulkheads, everything. It was like walking on glass. She climbed down on the forward well-deck and stood peering forward, trying to see the skyline; but all she could see for a little while was the soft, twinkling lights in the lower stories of the buildings and the busy little ferries. Sounds were muted and yet strangely clear; she could hear a train somewhere, and suddenly she could smell smoke, the smoke of a great city across that icy, pure air. New York was only a dim ghost ahead, unreal as this hardly-born morning; but in that puff of smoke it came to Cherry, real and exciting and throbbing with hidden life.

"Yes, sir?" The man appeared like a genie out of the gloom. "Get us two cups of coffee, will you?"

"Right away, sir."

Bates disappeared, grinning. Mister King ordering coffee for two on the bridge was a rare treat. Bates was slightly disappointed when he returned quickly with the coffee and was told to take the other cup to Miss Mayne below.

"This morning there was no fog. The air was crystal-clear; it looked as if the buildings were being painted in translucent gold against a sky of washed blue, by some invisible painter.

She said breathlessly, "Oh, it's all like a fairy tale! And I thought New York was a horrible place—hurrying, bustling, dark and overcrowded. The Big Business city. But this—I wish I could paint! I wish I could keep it forever! Photographs give you no idea."

Rory looked down at her small face framed in the dark muffler, like a peasant or a nun. She would make a beautiful nun. There was faith and hope and charity in the clear eyes and soft mouth and proud little chin. There was more beauty, here in Cherry's upturned face, than in the whole skyline of New York, for Rory. And in a few weeks she would be Lady Fennimore, probably. He hoped Sir Douglas would realize his incredible luck. Not now, of course, when he was enchanted with the child, but in a few years, when he would be seventy and Cherry only in her early forties. If he did, she would have to be an old man's darling.

It was a revolting thought. Impulsively Rory said, so low that only Cherry could hear, "I'd like to show you around the city. I think you'd be a nice person to share this modern magic with. Only I'm not much good as a guide, and I don't suppose I'll have the chance, anyway."

Cherry smiled. "I should love it. But Mr. Holmes is very doubtful about shore leave. We may have to anchor in the river."

"We're going alongside, all right. We'll be tied up in half an hour."

Unbeknownst to Cherry an intrigue was soon in progress behind her back. Terry laylaid Captain Brigson and begged permission for Rory King to accompany him and Cherry to the zoo. The captain agreed and the boy rushed to tell Rory.

King smiled, then he agreed when the boy exclaimed: "She likes you—she said so. Oh, please come with us!"

Chapter 22

The three of them—Terry, Rory and Cherry—saw New York in a whirl of new adventure and excitement. The great city—untouched by war—went about its business as usual. At the little company which had been aboard the Coromandel for more than a month every moment had a thrill.

They went to the top of the Empire State building, gazed down upon the teeming streets a thousand feet below. Cherry shrank back from the stone ramparts in fright, gripping Terry's hand. But the tall second mate put an arm around both of them and laughed at the slender girl's fears.

When she felt his arm upon her shoulder, Cherry looked up. For a moment their eyes met; then Rory smiled.

"We aren't on the ship now," he said.

It was nearly dark when they returned to the Coromandel.

Julia was furious. Magnificent in an evening dress she scolded the excited Terry who had been trying to tell her all he had seen. Julia interrupted acidly: "It's a pity you had to keep Mr. King out so late. My friends are giving me a farewell party at the Waldorf, and he is taking me. Now we shall be late for cocktails."

She was in a worse temper than usual as she dressed. Her friends here had done their best to occupy her short stay with a full program, but even Julia could feel a lack of warmth in their welcome; it was as if the war had changed them, done something queer to her pleasure-loving crowd.

SHE intended to look devastating tonight. Neil Barry was to be a guest of the Bellings at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight, and he was traveling to England with them. Julia, bored and exasperated with her trip so far, thought that Neil might live up the last three weeks of it. He was noted

SHE intended to look devastating tonight. Neil Barry was to be a guest of the Bellings at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight, and he was traveling to England with them. Julia, bored and exasperated with her trip so far, thought that Neil might live up the last three weeks of it. He was noted for his cynicism about women, but at least he would be an amusing companion—not mooning after young girls like that absurd Douglas Fennimore, or stiffly reserved like Rory King.

Not that Julia had any intention of abandoning the hunt where they were concerned. Not while she could hurt that insufferable Cherry Mayne, the girl who had quietly refused to be bought and who made Julia feel more uncomfortable than any body else had ever done.

She wouldn't forgive Cherry for that in a hurry.

If the girl had not been on board, she would have had both Sir Douglas and Rory eating out of her hand. Julia blamed Cherry for that, too, and the way she had spoiled Terry, deceiving his loyalty away from his own relatives until he followed her about like a worshipping puppy!

The more she thought of Cherry being out with Rory, the more annoyed Julia grew. She told herself it was because they would be late, forgetting that she was quite at liberty to go alone if she wanted to. And New York had been subtly disappointing, with all her friends talking of nothing else but the silly old war. As if one had been through that dreadful blitz two years ago to come to the last civilized city left in the world, only to talk about the war!

She wanted to arrive at the hotel escorted by Rory King. Rory was good-looking, and a gentleman, and a man any woman could be seen about with. It would be the last straw if he came aboard too late to take her—if Barry saw her arrive alone.

Julia impatiently opened her porthole, and put her head out into the icy air. And by some malignant luck she was just in time to see Cherry walking along the deck with Rory, to see the girl's glowing face bent over an armful of glorious flowers as she made some laughing remark to him, every look and movement a confession of happiness.

Any woman could have told she was in love with the man she had just left, when she entered the cabin. But Cherry wasn't or guard against critical feminine eyes just then. She was like a child having her first party, a young madonna bent over her first infant. It was all over in a matter of seconds. In less than a minute Cherry had pulled herself together and assumed the mantle of her profession, as definitely as she would soon put on her uniform. But Julia had seen and noted that glowing ecstasy. It was so real in contrast to the sophisticated, artificial elegance that her mirror reflected that it hurt her.

SO THE baggage was in love with Rory. And she was going to marry Douglas. Probably for his title or his money. She was fooling the middle-aged man who had become infatuated with her youth and charm under the exotic moon of the Pacific.

She deserved any hurt she got. Julia told herself bitterly. And when Cherry reported on duty a few minutes later, it was easy enough to prick the bubble of the girl's happiness.

Later, Julia thought as she allowed Rory to help her ashore and into a waiting taxi, she had handled that very well indeed. Cherry Mayne might have her little nursemaid's expedition to the zoo; but when it came to the evening, and the glamor of the Waldorf-Astoria, a man like Gregory King wouldn't be seen dead with Cherry.

Julia managed to arrange her mind very nicely, skirting the truth and making a pattern to suit herself. But she had achieved her immediate object. She had taken that absurd glow out of Cherry's face and put the girl in her place. She told herself complacently that she had done it for Cherry's own good. If she was going to marry Sir Douglas, it was time she stopped playing the fool with anyone as young and attractive as Rory.

Julia managed to arrive in a glow of virtue.

Metzger-Wright's has consistently observed Government restrictions on special promotions and "Sale" events, in order to help prevent a runaway demand for merchandise. Periodic clearances are, however, very much "In Order" and are especially necessary to prevent overstock with the Inventory Limitation Regulation.

The M. B. C. Sale is just such an event. It is held once a year only, as a means of quickly disposing of Fall merchandise in order to clear shelves, tables, counters and stockrooms for the heavy influx of Christmas goods that will be rolling in upon us within the next three weeks. Since this is one of the very few "allowable" Clearances, markdowns are correspondingly and savings correspondingly great.

Every floor, every department in the store has something to offer in this whirlwind Clearance—this one-and-only bonafide Fall Clearance. This is the month before Christmas... and the Month Before Christmas Sale. Be sure to come early for the best selection.
